GRANT SUPPORT

Current Support

K23 HL125748-01 (C. Alcántara, PI) NIH/NHLBI $796,500 09/01/2015 – 08/31/2020

The overall goal of this career development award is to develop an independent scientist whose program of research focuses on cardiovascular behavioral risk factors including sleep. Using unobtrusive and continuous data collection methods, this observational study aims to identify a novel behavioral target to improve sleep by examining whether sleep deficiency is associated with deficits in self-regulation resources, and exploring if socioeconomic status alters this association.

Columbia University Provost Grant (C. Alcántara, PI) $73,502 07/01/2015 – 08/31/2018

Grant for Junior Faculty Who Contribute to the Diversity Goals of the University

Using eHealth to Expand Access to Cognitive Behavioral Therapy for Insomnia in Hispanic Primary Care Patients

The primary goal of this project is to conduct qualitative research on the cultural understandings of sleep and health to be used in the development of a culturally adapted interactive online program of cognitive behavioral therapy for insomnia (CBT-I) in a low-income Hispanic primary care patient population.

PCORI (PI: K.W. Davidson, Ph.D.; Co-I: C. Alcántara) PCORI $749,815 12/01/2014 – 11/30/2017

Engaging Stakeholders in Building Patient-Centered N-of-1 Trials

The aims of this proposal are to engage patients and other key stakeholders (e.g., clinicians and ethicists) to prospectively shape the research and methods agenda of an N-of-1 RCT approach to increase the likelihood that patients, clinicians, and health systems can benefit from this method as a clinical decision tool.

Past Support

KL2 TR000081-10 (C. Alcántara, PI) NIH/CTSA $89,100 07/01/2015 – 08/31/2015

Prognostic Risk of Sleep Deficiency After Acute Coronary Syndrome. The primary goal of this proposal was to examine whether actigraphy-measured short sleep duration (<7 hours/night) after an acute coronary syndrome (ACS) predicted 1-year ACS recurrence and mortality in a large, diverse cohort of ACS patients, independent of traditional cardiovascular disease (CVD) risk factors.

3R01HL115941-01S1 (K.W. Davidson, PI; M. Burg, PI) NIH/NHLBI $345,842 02/01/2013 – 06/30/2015

Ecological Link Of Psychosocial Stress To Exercise: Personalized Pathways

Role: Awardee, Investigator Research Supplement to Promote Diversity in Health-Related Research

Building off the parent grant, the primary aims of this supplement were to examine whether anxiety sensitivity—a cognitive vulnerability— was a predictor of actigraphy-assessed exercise, and the effect of anxiety sensitivity on the relationship between ecologically-assessed stress perception and actigraphy-assessed exercise behavior.

1F31MH078257-01A1 (C. Alcántara, PI) NIH/NIMH $51,303 01/01/2008 – 06/30/2009
Acculturation and Ataque de Nervios in a Community Sample

Through the use of quantitative and qualitative methods this project explored the interplay between acculturation, ataque de nervios, and psychopathology in a Mexican/Mexican-American adult female community sample.
