

VALERIA J. MARTINEZ, MSE, CAS

Founder, VJ Consulting for Social Inclusion
Assistant Dean, Diversity, Equity & Inclusion,
Carnegie Mellon University

Valeria J. Martinez is a justice, equity, diversity and inclusion consultant, keynote speaker and student affairs professional.

Valeria has worked at Wilkes University, Syracuse University, Columbia University, and Cornell University respectively and has consulted for Colgate University, NYU Stern, and several K-12 schools in the City of Syracuse, Manhattan, NY and Bronx, NY, and over a dozen corporations. While serving as Associate Director for Mentoring and Diversity Education at Syracuse University, she held a dual appointment in the College of Arts and Sciences at Syracuse University teaching in their Latin/Latino American Studies department. She has served as a retreat facilitator for colleges and universities across the nation and has delivered several keynote addresses, including an address for TED X.

In 2020, Valeria began VJ Consulting for Social Inclusion, an organization focused on supporting folx of all communities to best understand values of social justice, diversity, equity, and inclusion. Through consulting, coaching, facilitating training and giving keynotes, Valeria works to meet an individual where they are and support organizations with their respective objectives.

Valeria is a current doctoral student in Peabody College at Vanderbilt University. In addition to her work with VJ Consulting for Social Inclusion, Valeria serves as assistant dean for diversity, equity and inclusion at Carnegie Mellon University. She also is an instructor for Cornell University. She holds a Master of Science in Education from Syracuse University, where she also holds a Certificate of Advanced Studies in Women and Gender Studies.

Website: <https://www.vjconsulting.org/>

Instagram: vj.consulting